

VATINIAN LAW

59 BC

Hereafter, an Aligned Senator may govern one or more Provinces through a Legate while remaining in Rome in some other office or commanding an office in the field. All officials are now eligible to become Governors, regardless if they are in Rome, hold a Major Office or already control a Province via Legate (proxy). Once elected to be a Governor a Senator in Rome must choose to either go to the Province until his term is up (or he is recalled) or govern the Province through a Legate.
